

WYOMING COMMUNITY COLLEGE COMMISSION POLICY ON CONSULTATION

In order to assist Wyoming community colleges and the Wyoming Community College Commission (WCCC) in functioning effectively as a coordinated system, these procedures have been developed by Commission staff and college administrators to allow them to collectively assist and advise the Commission on issues related to proposed budget requests, proposed legislation, rules to implement statute, and procedures to ensure the collaboration necessary to fulfill the statewide college system strategic plan.

The purposes of the consultation structure are to:

- (a) Enhance the effectiveness of the colleges in achieving their legislatively established statewide college system strategic plan;
- (b) Advise the Wyoming Community College Commission in its statutory role of general coordination, administrative approval, review, reporting, and implementing functions on behalf of the community colleges.
- (c) Improve communication and mutual understanding between the Commission and the college districts; and
- (d) Provide a structure for collaborative leadership that aims to create a sense of unity within Wyoming's community college system.

The consultation structure is not intended to be the exclusive method of providing policy input to the Wyoming Community College Commission. Instead, the process establishes the usual method for developing legislative requests and commission rules, policy, and practices, recognizing the rights of Council members to disagree with a particular result after they have exercised the opportunity to participate in shaping that result.

The consultation structure recognizes the impossibility of involving all interested parties in all levels of policy development. Therefore, this process has been established to provide consultation at various levels, with all recommendations directed through the Executive Council and, when necessary, on to the Commission. This process provides college district representatives serving on a recognized council with the opportunity to seek input from interested parties from the district they represent and then to introduce that input into the consultation process in accordance with established guidelines. Consequently, before its various stages are completed, this consultation process should provide all those concerned with a meaningful opportunity to participate in the development of recommendations.

In order to implement a formal consultation structure, the Wyoming Community College Commission recognizes six consultation councils and nine standing committees and provides for their effective functioning as follows:

I. THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL:

The Executive Council is comprised of the executive director of the Wyoming Community College Commission and the presidents of the seven college districts and is chaired by the executive director. The Executive Council is the primary body by which the Commission accomplishes consultation. Agenda items scheduled for Commission action and reports will be discussed at regularly scheduled meetings of the Executive Council. The Executive Council is advisory to the executive director, and the executive director shall provide minutes of all meetings. This policy assumes that the college chief executive officers, as members of the Executive Council, unless otherwise noted, speak for their respective institutions in making recommendations to the executive director of the Commission. College presidents, on approval of their boards, may represent the views of their local governing boards at Commission meetings on agenda items that have been considered in Executive Council or are added to the agenda during a Commission meeting.

The Commission recognizes that the college presidents represent their respective trustees and districts in providing an institutional perspective for community college policymaking. In furtherance of this recognition, the Commission's executive director shall convene and consult with the Executive Council as the central component of the consultation structure. The Executive Council shall serve as a communication and policy development body to be used by the executive director and college presidents to develop or review proposals that will affect the community college system.

Consultation Councils of academic affairs, student affairs, administrative services, chief information officers and data governance/institutional research, standing committees of marketing, WYDEC, workforce training, AE/HSEC, libraries, financial aid, admissions, registration, program review and ad hoc committees as determined necessary, shall be utilized by the Executive Council to address the ongoing business of the colleges with the Commission and shall be chaired by Commission staff designated by the executive director. Issues assigned to, or raised by, these councils and committees may be advanced through college presidents or Commission staff to be proposed for inclusion on the Executive Council agenda.

The executive director may create sub-committees of the Executive Council to consider such matters as may be delegated by the Council to the sub-committees, and the sub-committees shall provide reports to the Council.

By either consensus or majority vote, the Executive Council shall decide which policy issues are to be delegated to Executive Council sub-committees, subordinate councils, standing committees, or ad hoc committees. The work product of Executive Council sub-committees, subordinate councils, standing committees, or ad hoc committees that may be submitted to Commission staff or the Commission must first be discussed and voted on by the Executive Council prior to final submission to Commission staff or the Commission.

Although specific position titles are referenced below, the executive director shall designate his/her representative on each of the subordinate councils, standing committees and ad hoc committees. The president of each college shall designate his/her representative on each of the subordinate councils, standing committees and ad hoc committees.

A. Executive Council Membership

The Executive Council shall consist of the Commission's executive director and the president of each of the college districts.

B. Executive Council Meetings

1. Meetings of the Executive Council shall be scheduled and chaired by the Commission executive director. Regular council meetings will be scheduled in advance of Commission meetings to allow for a timely review of subordinate council recommendations and Commission agenda packets.
2. Council members shall be notified of the time and place of each regular meeting at least ten days in advance of the meeting. Notification will include an agenda and available materials. Emergency or special meetings may be scheduled as necessary with the consent of a majority of the members of the Executive Council.
3. The presidents will be consulted regarding the agenda for each meeting prior to making it final. Individual members may propose Executive Council agenda items. Proposed agenda items should be submitted to the executive director at least ten working days prior to each regularly scheduled meeting. The right of final decision on the content of each Executive Council agenda is reserved to the executive director.
4. The executive director will provide secretarial support for the Executive Council, and minutes will be prepared for each meeting. Minutes for the prior meeting will be included with the agenda mailed for the next meeting, and will be distributed to all college district presidents and affected Commission staff and approved at the next meeting.
5. Representatives of a subordinate council shall be included on the Executive Council agenda prior to a final decision by the Executive Council to charge the subordinate council with a specific assignment and shall attend the meeting at which the final decision on the specific assignment is made.
6. Following an Executive Council decision made by consensus or by majority vote to charge a subordinate council with a specific assignment, a subordinate council or committee may request to be placed on the agenda of the Executive Council. All such requests shall be submitted by the Chair of the subordinate council to the Chair of the Executive Council, with copies of the request distributed to all members of both the Executive Council and the subordinate council or committee.

7. When a president is unable to attend a meeting of the Executive Council, that president may appoint a designee but must inform all members of the Executive Council in writing if the designee is given the authority to speak and act on behalf of the college.
8. When a president fails to attend a meeting of the Executive Council and does not send a designee or does not authorize the designee to speak and act on behalf of the college, a no vote shall be recorded for that College on all motions.
9. In order for the Executive Council to take action at a meeting, a quorum of at least five members must be in attendance and at least five members must vote in favor of a motion in order for the motion to pass.

II. THE ACADEMIC AFFAIRS COUNCIL:

The Commission recognizes the Academic Affairs Council, reporting through the Executive Council, as the representative body for district chief academic officers on academic policy matters that require system-wide coordination.

The Academic Affairs Council is advisory to the Executive Council. The Commission's programs team leader shall provide written proceedings of all meetings.

One of the basic principles of academic leadership in higher education is that authority derives not only from the powers vested in governing boards and their administrative staffs, but also from the knowledge of academic disciplines and pedagogy which the faculty possess. Because both sources of authority are vital to the development and implementation of sound educational policy, each Council representative is asked to discuss proposed policy with his/her Chief Executive Officer and with both his/her local administrative colleagues and faculty colleagues, thereby allowing members of both groups to participate in the development of recommendations. Chief academic officers are viewed as both institutional leaders and faculty and student representatives in the consultation structure.

Occasionally, there will be academic and academic support issues and challenges that span multiple functional areas and may need to be addressed in multiple councils sequentially or simultaneously. Communication and collaboration will be critical components of all efforts involving multiple councils.
